Integrity policy

Your personal integrity is important to us and we strive for a high level of data protection. It should be easy to understand how we treat your personal data and that it is in accordance with the Data Protection Ordinance.

We process personal information such as name, identification number, e-mail and IP address as well as information about your use of our website. Personal data is also required to answer the questions sent via our e-mail address info@domsjo.com.

Personal data is stored as long as it is required to fulfil the purpose or as long as it is required by law. After that they are deleted.

For us, it is self-evident to assist you if you want to know what personal information we have about you; we urgently resolve any errors and delete any information of your request. You may at any time withdraw your consent to let us use the information.

The information you provide Domsjö Fabriker can be shared within the company, but we do not forward, sell or exchange personal information. In line with the technical development, we work to develop the protection of your data from loss, manipulation and unauthorized access.

Regarding cookies (the text file stored on your computer/mobile device and retrieved during later visits on the website) is used to simplify your visit, never to store personal data or to distribute them to third parties. On our website there are links to other websites that we are not in control of, and we are therefore not responsible for the privacy protection of these websites.

We are continuously working on privacy issues and may therefore update this policy. You are always welcome to contact us if you have questions, comments or if you find that we have handled your personal information incorrectly. The Data Inspection Board is responsible for supervision according to data protection law, and the person who considers that there is an incorrect handling of personal data can make complaints to the Data Inspection Board.
